ABOUT US

Asians in Energy leads Asian Americans and Pacific Islanders on energy issues and trends to inspire understanding, expand knowledge and strengthen our communities. As a resource to business, community, government, and media on the energy sector, we aspire to diversity and inclusion by delivering industry information and news in the top Asian languages. Additionally, we strive to empower AAPIs to have a voice and representation on the rapidly changing energy industry. We hold in-person and virtual energy summits, networking sessions, mentorship and internship programs, issue newsletters, post job openings, and collaborate with other energy-related organizations.
